Involved Employee Statement

Deputy Cueva was interviewed by Homicide Investigators on the date of the incident. The interview was audio recorded and can be found on the CD contained in Exhibit F; refer to the verbatim transcription for precise wording. For a summary of the interview, refer to Exhibit A, pages 9-12. IAB Investigator Eric Eitner reviewed the audio recording and found that Homicide's summary of the interview is an accurate account of what was said.

IAB Interview of Deputy Cueva

Deputy Cueva was interviewed by IAB Investigators Eric Eitner and Sonja Bracken on September 11, 2014. The interview was audio recorded and can be found on the CD contained in Exhibit F; refer to the verbatim transcription for precise wording. The following is a summary of the interview.

Deputy Cueva said he was driving eastbound Agnes Avenue when he saw Suspect Villareal walking westbound on the south side of Agnes Avenue crossing Muriel Drive. Suspect Villareal had gang type tattoos on his neck, was wearing baggy clothing, and a jacket on a rather warm day. Suspect Villareal appeared nervous, quickened his pace, and spilled water from a water bottle he was drinking from as he passed by Deputy Cueva's patrol car. Being aware of recent burglaries in the area, Deputy Cueva decided to stop Suspect Villareal.

Deputy Cueva stopped his patrol car on Agnes Avenue and Muriel Avenue. Deputy Cueva got out and walked around the back of his patrol car toward Suspect Villareal who was now to the west of Deputy Cueva. Deputy Cueva told Suspect Villareal to come back so he could talk to him. Suspect Villareal turned, faced Deputy Cueva and said, "What the fuck? I didn't do anything." While conversing with Deputy Cueva, Suspect Villareal was walking backwards as both continued moving westbound away from Deputy Cueva's patrol car.

Utilizing a Google aerial map printout of the area, Deputy Cueva drew a rectangle indicating where he parked his patrol car. Utilizing the same Google map printout, Deputy Cueva drew an "X" indicating Suspect Villareal's approximate position when Deputy Cueva first called out to him; refer to Exhibit G.

Believing Suspect Villareal was trying to evade him and in order to close the distance, Deputy Cueva walked rapidly toward Suspect Villareal. When Deputy Cueva got within one to two feet from Suspect Villareal; Suspect Villareal pulled a handgun from his waistband as he simultaneously turned and started to run away. Seeing the gun in Suspect Villareal's hand, Deputy Cueva drew his duty weapon and told Suspect Villareal to drop the gun. When Suspect Villareal was approximately five to ten feet away, Deputy Cueva heard the sound of a shot being fired. Fearing for his life believing Suspect Villareal was shooting at him; Deputy Cueva fired approximately four to six rounds striking Suspect Villareal in the back. When asked to describe how Suspect Villareal was shooting at him, Deputy Cueva said he believed Suspect Villareal had extended his right arm back and upward toward him while he was running away.

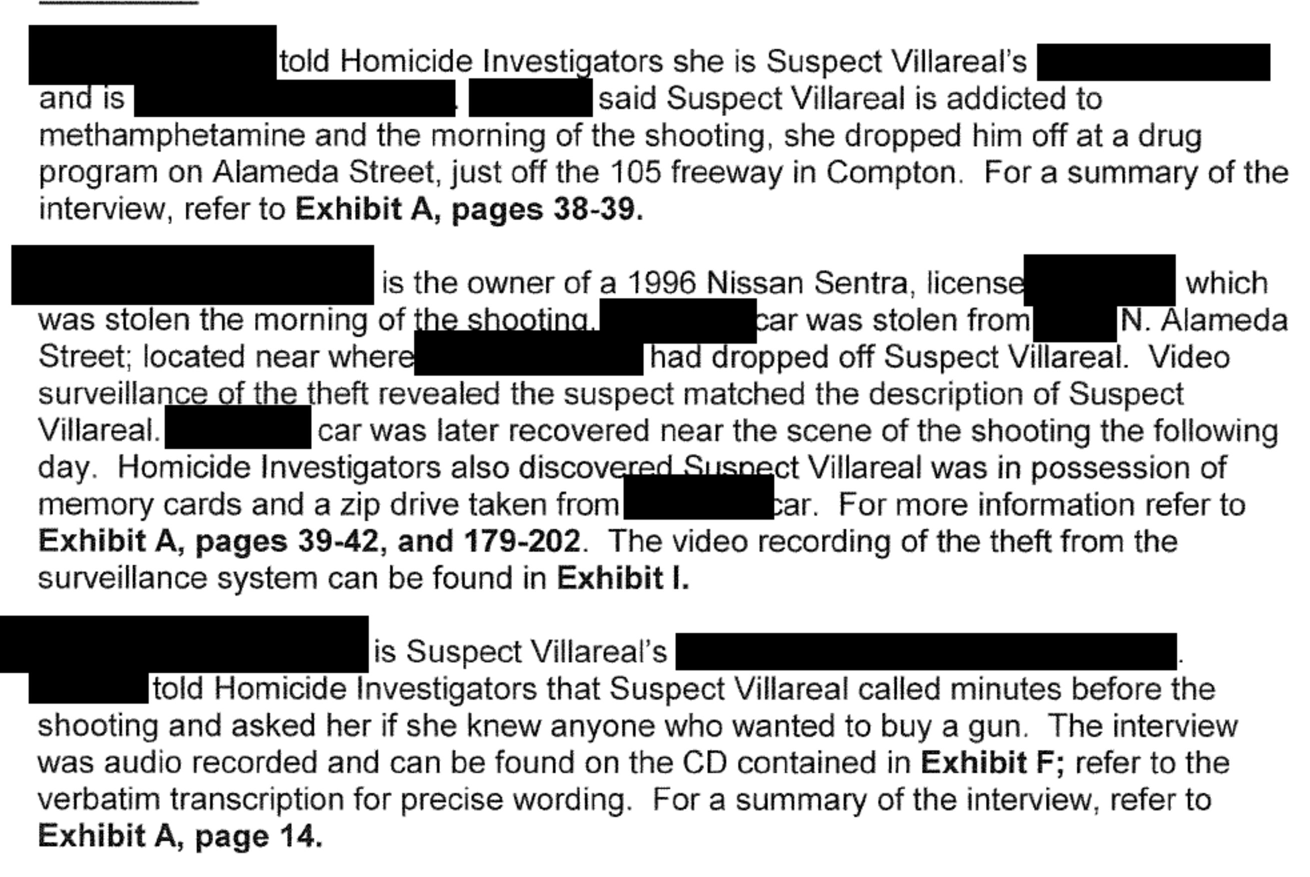

Suspect Villareal continued running westbound and then stopped near the south curb line with the gun in his hand. Suspect Villareal turned and faced Deputy Cueva. Deputy Cueva ordered Suspect Villareal to drop the gun. Suspect Villareal told Deputy Cueva he had been shot in the leg and refused to drop the gun. Due to his injuries, Suspect Villareal fell to the ground as Deputy Cueva moved laterally into the driveway south of Suspect Villareal; placing himself behind and higher than Suspect Villareal who was still moving around on the ground.

Utilizing a photo of the crime scene, Deputy Cueva drew an "X" indicating Deputy Cueva's approximate position when he first shot at Suspect Villareal. Utilizing the same crime scene photo, Deputy Cueva drew an "X" with an arrow indicating the approximate position where Suspect Villareal fell to the ground, west of the driveway for [redacted] Cornish Avenue; refer to Exhibit G.

Suspect Villareal was lying along the south curb line with his back toward Deputy Cueva and the curb which provided cover. Deputy Cueva repeatedly told Suspect Villareal to drop the gun, but he refused. Deputy Cueva saw Suspect Villareal moving the gun around in his hands appearing as though he was trying to turn and point it at him. Deputy Cueva heard more gunshots and fearing Suspect Villareal was shooting at him, Deputy Cueva returned fire. Deputy Cueva fired approximately ten more rounds and the slide of Deputy Cueva's gun locked back indicating it was empty.

Suspect Villareal stopped moving, but continued to hold onto his gun. Deputy Cueva reloaded his gun and broadcast emergent radio traffic advising he was involved in a shooting. The recording of the emergent radio traffic can be found on the CD contained in Exhibit F; for the verbatim transcription refer to Exhibit H. Deputy Cueva detained Suspect Villareal at gunpoint until responding deputies arrived and took him into custody.

Deputy Cueva said he did not see any pedestrian or vehicle traffic during the shooting. The first volley of shots were fired in a southwest direction. The second volley of shots were fired in a northwest direction.

Dear Captain Harris:

The Justice System Integrity Division of the Los Angeles County District Attorney's Office has completed its review of the April 9, 2013, fatal shooting of Edgar Villareal by Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department (LASD) Deputy Carlos Cueva. We have concluded that Deputy Cueva acted in lawful self-defense.

The District Attorney's Command Center was notified of this shooting on April 9, 2013, at approximately 2:35 p.m. The District Attorney Response Team, comprised of Deputy District Attorney Amy Pellman Pentz and District Attorney Senior Investigator Juan Flores, responded and was given a briefing and walk-through of the scene by LASD Lieutenant Dave Dolson.

The following analysis is based upon reports, photographs, and audio recordings submitted to this office by Sergeant Jeff Cochran from the LASD's Homicide Bureau. No compelled statements were considered in this analysis.

FACTUAL ANALYSIS

On April 9, 2013, at approximately 1:45 p.m., Deputy Cueva was working a single man unit in full uniform. Cueva was driving a marked black and white vehicle eastbound on Agnes Street in the City of Lynwood in response to a call for a welfare check on Muriel Drive, south of Agnes Street. As he proceeded down Agnes Street, Cueva saw a man, later identified as Edgar Villareal, walking westbound on the south side of Agnes Street, crossing Muriel Drive. Villareal was wearing a bulky jacket on a warm day.[1] As Cueva made eye contact with Villareal, Villareal appeared nervous, spilled water on himself while drinking from a bottle, and increased his pace as he walked past Cueva. Cueva was aware of recent burglaries in the area and decided to contact Villareal prior to responding to the call for service.

[1] Deputy Cueva estimated that the temperature was 80 degrees.

Cueva stopped his car near the southwest corner of Agnes Street and Muriel Drive and exited his vehicle. Cueva told Villareal, who was now fifteen to twenty feet west of Cueva, to "Come here!" Villareal responded, "Why? I didn't do anything!" and continued to walk away. As Cueva followed Villareal, he observed Villareal turn his body to the right and, using both hands, manipulate an object in his waistband. As Cueva continued to approach Villareal, Cueva saw Villareal pull a black handgun from his waistband area. Cueva immediately drew his duty weapon and ordered "Drop the gun! Drop the gun! I'm going to shoot you!" Villareal turned his body away from Deputy Cueva and continued to walk westbound, away from Cueva.

As Cueva followed, he heard a loud "pop." Believing that Villareal fired his weapon at him, Cueva discharged his weapon several times at Villareal. Villareal ran in a southwest direction and fell near the south gutter on Agnes Street near Cornish Avenue, still gripping the gun.[2] Villareal laid in the gutter on his left side with his head to the west and his feet to the east.

Cueva positioned himself in the driveway of the house located on the southeast corner of Agnes Street and Cornish Avenue, south of Villareal. Villareal said, "Hey! You shot me in the leg!" Cueva ordered Villareal to show his hands. Villareal did not comply with Cueva's order, continued to move the gun, and fired his weapon.[3] In response, Cueva fired his duty weapon at Villareal and immediately conducted a tactical reload of his weapon. Cueva did not fire his weapon again.[4]

Cueva advised communications that he had been involved in a shooting and remained at the location waiting for assistance. Deputies Contreras, Anderson, and Delatorre were the first to arrive. Delatorre removed the gun from Villareal's hand and placed the gun on the lawn of the residence on the southeast corner of Agnes Street and Cornish Avenue. Using Cueva's handcuffs, Anderson handcuffed Villareal. Members of the Los Angeles County Fire Department arrived, treated Villareal at the scene, and transported him to Saint Francis Medical Center in Lynwood. Despite medical intervention, Villareal succumbed to his injuries at 2:15 p.m.

On April 14, 2013, Deputy Medical Examiner Ajay J. Panchal, M.D., conducted an autopsy on Villareal's body. Villareal sustained a total of nine gunshot wounds, including one to the right neck, three to the right back, one to the right torso, one to the left chest, two to the left buttocks, and one to the right arm. Dr. Panchal ascribed the cause of death as multiple gunshot wounds. A toxicology analysis of a blood sample removed from Villareal's heart tested positive for carboxy-THC, tetrahydrocannabinol, amphetamine and methamphetamine.[5]

[2] Cornish Avenue is one block west of Muriel Drive.

[3] Deputy Cueva believed that Villareal fired his weapon twice while lying in the gutter. Cueva was unable to see a muzzle flash from Villareal's gun and could not be certain in what direction Villareal was firing, but believed that Villareal was trying to shoot him.

[4] Deputy Cueva believed that he fired his weapon five to six times during the first round of gunfire and ten times while Villareal was lying in the street.

[5] Additionally, medical personnel treating Villareal located a small plastic wrapped crystallized substance resembling methamphetamine in between Villareal's buttocks.

Several individuals witnessed the incident. [redacted] was at home when she heard approximately eight gunshots. [redacted] looked outside and saw a deputy in the driveway facing west and a man standing in the street facing east. [redacted] began moving her children to the back bedroom when she heard approximately ten additional gunshots. She went to her front door and heard another gunshot. [redacted] looked outside and saw Villareal fall to the ground near the south gutter of Agnes Avenue. Villareal said, "Okay, I'm down." [redacted] heard more gunshots and ducked below her window. Shortly after the last gunshot, additional deputies arrive at the scene. [redacted] again looked out her window and saw a deputy remove a gun from Villareal's hand. [redacted] had not seen the gun in Villareal's hand until it was removed by the deputy.

[redacted] was at home when he heard gunshots and peered out of a glass pane on his east facing front door. [redacted] saw Villareal fall to the ground holding a gun. A deputy yelled orders at Villareal and Villareal fired his weapon three to five times in a northernly direction. The deputy fired his weapon three times at Villareal while standing in the driveway of the house located on the southeast corner of Agnes Street and Cornish Avenue. The gunfire ceased and additional deputies arrived. Pineda saw a deputy remove a black gun from Villareal's hand and toss it to the ground, away from Villareal.

[redacted] was inside his residence when he heard gunshots. [redacted] looked out of a south facing window and saw Villareal lying on the ground near the gutter across the street. Villareal was lying on his left side in a fetal position holding a black gun in his right hand. His right arm was extended outward. A deputy was standing in the driveway pointing his weapon at Villareal. Assisting deputies arrived and [redacted] saw another deputy remove a gun from Villareal's hand.

[redacted] was inside her residence when she heard gunshots and looked out of her south facing window. [redacted] saw a deputy standing in the driveway and a man lying on the ground, near the south gutter, moving both of his arms. The deputy fired his gun at the man. Later, [redacted] saw a deputy remove a gun from somewhere near the man.[6]

Investigators reviewed media attention surrounding this incident and discovered a grainy, twenty-four second recording of a portion of the incident. Based upon the footage, the investigators believed that [redacted] may have recorded the incident and failed to disclose this fact to investigators during their initial interview. [redacted] was questioned about the recording and admitted that she recorded the incident using her I-phone. [redacted] said she did not initially tell investigators about the recording because a neighbor told her that the police would be upset with her for recording the incident. [redacted] previously provided a copy of this recording to a lawyer who identified himself as representing the Villareal family. [redacted] provided a copy of the footage to the investigators.

The recording depicts Deputy Cueva standing in the driveway and Villareal lying in the gutter. Investigators provided LASD Commercial Crimes Bureau Detective [redacted] a copy of the recording. [redacted] digitally enhanced the video and provided a copy to investigators, along with three still frame images. In the still frame images, Villareal is seen lying on his left side holding a gun. The three separate still frame images each depict a slightly different positioning of the gun, indicating that Villareal was moving the gun.

Deputy Cueva was armed with a department-issued Beretta 92FS 9mm semiautomatic handgun. The maximum capacity of this firearm is sixteen rounds. After the incident, the firearm was loaded with one round in the chamber and fourteen in the magazine. An empty magazine was located at the scene as well as fifteen 9mm expended cartridge casings.

Villareal was armed with a Beretta 96 .40 caliber semiautomatic pistol. The maximum capacity of this firearm is eleven rounds. At the time it was recovered, the pistol had one round in the chamber and one live round in the magazine. Eight expended .40 caliber cartridge casings were recovered at the scene, tested, and found to have been fired from Villareal's handgun. Villareal's hands were tested for the presence of gunshot residue (GSR). Numerous particles consistent with GSR were detected on Villareal's hand samples.[7] DNA recovered from the handle of this firearm contained a mixture of at least three contributors. The profile of the major contributor matched the profile taken from Villareal. The random match probability estimate of the major contributor profile is one out of 761 quadrillion.

The gun used by Villareal had been stolen in a vehicle burglary on March 6, 2013. That burglary occurred on Louise Avenue in the City of Lynwood. The owner of the gun, [redacted] left his firearm in a locked gun case inside of his car. [redacted] was shown a photograph of Villareal. [redacted] recognized Villareal as a person who he had seen hanging out at a residence located two doors north of [redacted] residence. One of Villareal's prior listed residences is in close proximity to [redacted] Avenue residence.

At 9:00 a.m., on the date of the incident, Villareal's girlfriend, [redacted] drove Villareal to a drug treatment program located on Alameda Street, south of the 105 freeway, in the City of Compton. At approximately 10:50 a.m., Villareal stole a 1996 Nissan Sentra belonging to [redacted] from the [redacted] block of North Alameda in the City of Compton. Villareal drove [redacted] Sentra to the [redacted] block of Agnes Avenue,[8] removed some of Lozano's personal property from the Sentra,[9] and left the vehicle at that location. Sometime later, Josephine Ramirez, a longtime friend of Villareal, saw Villareal sitting on some stairs at Ham Park. Villareal told Ramirez that he would walk with her to her friend's house. As they were walking down Agnes Street, Villareal told Ramirez that he was in possession of a gun. Ramirez did not see the gun, entered her friend's house, and saw Villareal continue walking westbound on the south side of Agnes Street. Minutes later, Ramirez heard gunshots. Ramirez told investigators

[7] The presence of these particles is consistent with Villareal handling or discharging a firearm, being in close proximity to a discharging firearm, or otherwise having been in contact with an environment of gunshot residue primer.

[8] This location is approximately four blocks from the location of the deputy involved shooting.

[9] Personal property belonging to Lozano was found on Villareal's person.

that Villareal uses drugs and believed that he was under the influence at the time they were walking together. [redacted] Villareal's [redacted] confirmed that her brother was addicted to methamphetamine.

At the time of the incident, Villareal was 25 years old, stood 5'7" tall, and weighed 130 pounds. Villareal was an associate of "Varrio Los Padrinos" criminal street gang with a moniker of "Lizard." His prior criminal convictions include [redacted]

CONCLUSION

According to the law in California, a person acted in lawful self-defense or defense of another if (1) he reasonably believed that he or someone else was in imminent danger of being killed or suffering great bodily injury and (2) he reasonably believed that the immediate use of deadly force was necessary to defend against that danger. CALCRIM No. 505. If the person's beliefs were reasonable, the danger does not need to have actually existed. CALCRIM No. 3470. The right of self-defense is the same whether the danger is real or merely apparent. People v. Toledo (1948) 85 Cal.App.2d 577.

"The 'reasonableness' of a particular use of force must be judged from the perspective of a reasonable officer on the scene, rather than the 20/20 vision of hindsight...The calculus of reasonableness must embody allowance for the fact that police officers are often forced to make split-second judgments—in circumstances that are tense, uncertain, and rapidly evolving—about the amount of force that is necessary in a particular situation." Graham v. Conner (1989) 490 U.S. 386, 396-397.

The investigation revealed that Deputy Cueva was responding to a call when he saw Villareal walking down Agnes Street. Villareal was dressed for cold weather on a warm day and appeared nervous. Concerned, Cueva stopped his car and attempted to speak with Villareal. Villareal did not stop to talk to Deputy Cueva. As he walked away, Villareal removed a loaded semiautomatic handgun from his waistband area. Cueva ordered Villareal to drop the weapon. Instead of following Cueva's order, Villareal fired his weapon. Deputy Cueva, in fear for his life, returned fire at Villareal, striking him. Villareal fell to the ground, still holding the firearm. While on the ground, Villareal moved and fired the weapon. In fear, Deputy Cueva again fired his weapon at Villareal. Cueva held Villareal at gunpoint until other deputies arrived and removed the loaded gun from Villareal's hand.

We conclude that Deputy Carlos Cueva was placed in reasonable fear of imminent danger of death or great bodily injury by Edgar Villareal's actions and acted lawfully in self-defense when he used deadly force. We are therefore closing our file and will take no further action in this matter.

Very truly yours,
